

Successful Co-Teaching Using a Coaching Model

Dr. Patrick Schwarz

Co-teaching has become a popular and successful researched service delivery model. This training will assist teachers in becoming adept at all the co-teaching models and successful practices in planning, teaching and assessment for all learners. The September training will consist of training on co-teaching models, collaboration, planning and teaching practices. Later in the year, Patrick will follow up with classroom observations and coaching. In March, Dr. Schwarz will return to offer additional support for teams next steps and celebrate accomplishments.

In addition to co-teachers, districts are encouraged to send staff that can be trained as internal coaches within their district.
